

Project ECHO for Campus Suicide Prevention

Fall
2021

The Campus Suicide
Prevention Center
of Virginia

WHAT IS PROJECT ECHO?

Project ECHO for Campus Suicide Prevention is a free, online forum for student service professionals to learn and discuss how to promote wellness and reduce suicide risk among college students. Using a group telementoring format, Project ECHO provides opportunities for you to interact with peers from other institutions to:

- Exchange information on strategic planning and implementation
- Share challenges and lessons learned
- Promote collaborative problem solving
- Support individual as well as systemic growth

WHAT DOES AN ECHO SESSION LOOK LIKE?

ECHO sessions meet bi-weekly for 90 minutes. A session includes:

- Introductions
- Mini-presentation on a topic related to campus suicide prevention or wellness promotion, based on participants' expressed interests
- Case presentation by a particular campus, followed by group discussion and problem-solving

WHO CAN JOIN PROJECT ECHO?

Participants include campus administrators and representatives from student services, wellness education, student health, campus security, residence life, disability services, and campus counseling centers in Virginia. CE credits are available. For questions, please email Danette Gibbs at gibbsdc@jmu.edu. For more information, visit the following link.

WHO IS LEADING THIS?

Project ECHO is sponsored by the Campus Suicide Prevention Center of Virginia in partnership with the Virginia Department of Health. We also receive guidance and technical support from the University of New Mexico's Project ECHO Institute.
